Important Notice: Canada Post Service Disruption

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers has moved from a full, national strike to rotating strikes. Canada Post advises that while service has resumed, there may be some uncertainty and instability in the postal service.

The Board continues to recommend that parties use alternative methods for transmitting documents and correspondence, in order to avoid any interruptions in communication or the timely receipt of submissions.

Parties who wish to rely on postal service should monitor the Canada Post website for information on rotating strikes, and are responsible to advise the Board if they believe a document or correspondence, is or may be delayed.

We appreciate your cooperation and understanding.
